

Teucrium Agricultural Strategy No K-1 ETF

TILL

The Big Four

Corn, wheat, soybeans, and sugar are among the most heavily traded agricultural commodities in the world, central to both global food security and the financial markets, with prominent futures contracts listed on major U.S. exchanges.[1]

TILL in Your Portfolio

- Commodities typically behave differently than other asset classes and can help enhance portfolio diversification.
- Returns of individual commodities can be influenced by a variety of factors, such as supply and demand dynamics, geopolitical events, and weather conditions.
- You can segment your commodity exposure (like you do with other asset classes) among various categories such as: Energy, Precious Metals, Agriculture, Industrial Metals, etc.
- TILL may be held as a core component of your overall exposure to agriculture.

Approximated Fund Holdings

Fund Objective

The Fund is an actively managed exchange-traded fund ("ETF") that seeks capital appreciation by investing primarily in agricultural commodities futures contracts traded on the Chicago Board of Trade ("CBOT") or Intercontinental Exchange Inc. ("ICE"). The Fund's portfolio holdings will consist of four commodities futures holdings, one in each of the following commodities: corn, wheat, soybeans, and sugar (each a "Component Futures Contract"). The portfolio will be rebalanced, generally on a monthly basis, in order to maintain approximately a 25% allocation of the Fund's assets to each Component Futures Contract.

Holding Period Design

Our funds are structured to align with different investment time frames, considering costs, fees, and how the futures markets operate.

Fund Strategy

TILL is an actively managed fund seeking long term capital appreciation. The managers select specific futures contracts according to a proprietary model. The fund seeks to own one contract per market, maintaining perpetual, long only exposure to each commodity. Generally, rebalances occur monthly, to maintain an approximate equal weight between holdings.

Commodities & Futures Risks:

Commodities and futures generally are volatile, and instruments whose underlying investments include commodities and futures are not suitable for all investors.

Futures may be affected by Backwardation: a market condition in which a futures price is lower in the distant delivery months than in the near delivery months. As a result, the fund may benefit because it would be selling more expensive contracts and buying less expensive ones on an ongoing basis; and Contango: A condition in which distant delivery prices for futures exceeds spot prices, often due to costs of storing and insuring the underlying commodity. Opposite of backwardation. As a result, the Fund's total return may be lower than might otherwise be the case because it would be selling less expensive contracts and buying more expensive one.

Definitions:

Chicago Board of Trade (CBOT): A commodity exchange established in 1848 that today trades in both agricultural and financial contracts. The CBOT originally traded only agricultural commodities. Now, the CBOT offers options and futures contracts on a wide range of products including metal, U.S. T-Bonds and energy.

Spot: The futures contract month nearest expiration and delivery month for futures contracts.

- TILL is a "non-diversified" investment company under the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended and, therefore, may invest a greater percentage of its assets in a particular security than a diversified fund. TILL is a commodity pool regulated by the CFTC.
- TILL is new and has limited operating history.
- Because the Fund will invest primarily in commodity futures contracts and other derivative instruments based on the price of the underlying commodities, an investment in the Fund will subject the investor to the risks of that commodity market, and this could result in substantial fluctuations in the price of the Fund's shares.
- Investors may choose to use the Fund as a means of investing indirectly in commodities, and there are risks involved in such investments.
